and Hip Society

Welcome Message

---

Dear colleagues,

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you at one of our activities: the symposium on periprosthetic infection.

Infection is one of the most devastating complications that a patient or surgeon can face. We are all aware with the burden on the society, both the health system and the national economy, to manage cases with established infection around a prosthesis. Therefore, the aims of this symposium are multiple folds: first to discuss the current evidence and protocols for prevention of infection as well as diagnosis of already infected cases. Second, to provide an update on the techniques of reconstruction and management of infected THA. Finally, to alarm the health professionals with the magnitude of the problem in Egypt, that may initiate specific policies to combat the rise on rates of infection.

I would like to thank the organizers and speakers for their valuable contributions. My thanks and gratitude would also go to the sponsors of the day for their endless support. However, the success of this society can only happen by your attendance and interaction.

Wishing you a fruitful event
